For Immediate Release

Caorda & Sage join forces in merger of two leading web development firms.

VICTORIA, British Columbia - November 6, 2012 - Caorda Web Solutions announces a merger with Sage Internet Solutions. The combined entity boasts more than 800 clients and 17 staff members and offers an increased breadth of services including creative web design and strategy, software development for web, mobile and Windows platforms, as well as Canadian hosting solutions.

“Sage has an impressive 16 year history of providing outstanding customer service with a deep level of expertise in web strategy and design. Sage’s knowledge in open-source software development and WordPress implementations are a great complement to Caorda’s expertise in ASP .NET custom web application development”, stated Paul Johnston, Caorda President and founder.

The merger between Caorda and Sage creates a leading edge web solutions organization with immediate benefits to existing customers and becomes the go-to firm for any business looking to improve its web presence, develop a custom web or mobile application, or implement a Canadian hosting solution.

Michael Stevulak, founder of Sage Internet Solutions Ltd. states, “I’m excited about the synergies between Caorda and Sage. The merger provides businesses across BC with a compelling solution for creative web design, responsive mobile web sites, software development and custom hosting services. Since its beginning in 1996, Sage has delivered a high level of customer service for its web projects which is matched with Caorda’s client-focused approach to service delivery”.

In the new organization, services for small business web design, ecommerce, online marketing and social media will be delivered under the division, Sage Web Strategy + Design, while Caorda Web Solutions will focus on application development and hosting solutions. All staff members have been retained and the integrated team is located at Suite 100-3550 Saanich Road, Victoria, BC.
